

NICK BERTUCCI, AIA

MANNING, APC

---

As a licensed architect and student of design, Nick Bertucci finds design inspiration in the experience of cities, from small rural towns in the Midwest to international hubs like Paris. The flow of impressions traveling through a city and the mood created corresponds to the design of buildings and the meaningful order orchestrated through the flow of spaces. Manning's engagement in a variety of project types holds a particular interest for Nick. Civic and educational architecture encompass a wide range of programmatic elements that, like a city in some respects, serve the user population's many needs. Transportation and planning address another scale of design, supporting residents and visitors. All of these unique architectural and planning projects offer the opportunity to celebrate life.
